Dear Prayer Healing Friends,

Hugh Lynn Cayce, then chairman of the A.R.E. Board of Trustees and a well-known and beloved speaker, gave this talk on death and rebirth. His extensive knowledge of the material that came through his father made him both highly interesting and informative.

In the last installment, we learned that according to the Cayce readings, death is merely a change in consciousness and experience. He used the example of water's ability to change form—gas, liquid, and solid. Please enjoy this fifth installment.

February 2019 Affirmation

“... Father, Thy will be done in and through me day by day.” (281-39)

As the soul and spirit entity takes its form in the spatial plane, as the physical body takes form in the material plane, it is subject to those immutable laws of the spatial plane. The spiritual entity of the individual is composed, then, of the spirit, the superconsciousness, the soul, the subconscious body, as the body prepared for the entity in the spiritual plane, then taking the position in the universal force, or space, that the entity has prepared for itself, and goes through its development in that plane, until readiness to manifest in the physical plane, and so that degree of development toward that perfection that would make the entity in its entirety perfect, or one with the Creator. (900-20)

THE FIRST TEN MINUTES AFTER DEATH: Hugh Lynn Cayce

Again, the parallels. The mind is the builder, and you are going to move into exactly the place, the condition, at death that you build now—not then, but now. There will be a transition and a moving on.

One of the most confusing of all our boundaries of perception is the concept of time. It’s one that begins to break down in the psychic experience. That is why the psychic world becomes so frightening and confusing at times. What we thought was a stable and space—two barriers we created in the psychic experience and make up our boundaries of perception is the mind—will we really begin to appreciate what is going on. For it is all one. We are in the middle of life and death now. We are dying every moment, every day. The change is constant, but we are not aware of it because of these peculiar perceptions we have of time and space.

We build, then, the pattern that we are going to move into; it’s a mental and space: only when we begin to break down those barriers and use time and space—two barriers we created in the mind—will we really begin to appreciate what is going on. For it is all one. We are in the middle of life and death now. We are dying every moment, every day. The change is constant, but we are not aware of it because of these peculiar perceptions we have of time and space.

When we build, then the pattern that we are going to move into; it’s a mental and space: only when we begin to break down those barriers and use time and space—two barriers we created in the mind—we will really begin to appreciate what is going on. For it is all one. We are in the middle of life and death now. We are dying every moment, every day. The change is constant, but we are not aware of it because of these peculiar perceptions we have of time and space.

When the body physical lays aside the material body,
