A.R.E./Glad Helpers'
International Prayer List

Dear Prayer Healing Friends,

Many members of the Glad Helpers Healing Prayer Group also belonged to the first Study Group. When the Study Group completed compiling and demonstrating Chapter 12, "Love," in "A Search for God," the Glad Helpers were told in April, 1934, "There will be occasions when a personal word . . . may make for [a] more hopeful attitude on the part of the seeker."

It was also suggested that the Glad Helpers were to become examples—" . . . living that life first in self and then sending it out in His name to those [who] seek." They were to " . . . [develop] the Christ Consciousness [pattern] . . . being selfless, that . . . the Christ may direct [your] ways . . . Let those things that [you know] be done in meekness, [humility] and in truth . . . Let thy prayer be that He will ever show thee, direct thee, lead thee." (Edgar Cayce reading 281-20) The following true story shows the importance of following our intuition and guidance.

With much love in this Holy Season,

. . . AND THE GREATEST OF THESE IS LOVE . . . (1 Corinthians 13:13)

Judith Stevens

A New England minister had a Saturday habit of walking in the nearby woods behind his parsonage as he reviewed his sermon for the following day. It was autumn, and as he ambled down a leafy corridor, he was suddenly struck by an overwhelming urge—a compulsion, even—to say "I love you" out loud.

He dismissed the notion as silly, and kept walking. But the feeling wouldn't go away; it intensified. Finally, feeling embarrassed, he muttered "I love you," and was astonished when his inner voice spoke again: "LOUDER."

The pastor took a deep breath, raised his voice a few decibels, and managed a stronger version: "I love you." This time the Voice insisted: "LOUDER!"

The minister stopped in his tracks. He looked carefully around him at the empty woods, then threw back his head and yelled, "I LOVE YOU!" at the top of his voice. Feeling more than a bit foolish, he glanced over his shoulder at the empty forest, retraced his steps home, and that was that.

The next morning after his Sunday sermon, he found himself in the church vestibule, greeting parishioners as they left, when a stranger stepped up and asked if he might have a private word with him.

The young man told the minister he had experienced something remarkable and needed to tell someone about it. "Yesterday I was in the woods," he began. (The preacher's attention immediately quickened.) "I went to the woods because I intended to kill myself," the young man said matter-of-factly.

December 2021 Affirmation

“Let each . . . so consecrate, so dedicate that hour, that period, to such a service for its fellow man . . . knowing, that His presence will be with thee . . .”

Edgar Cayce reading 281-20

The Edgar Cayce readings emphasize the importance that those who are seeking help and healing through prayer actively participate in the prayer effort—praying for themselves and others on the list. This creates a cooperative, unified prayer effort. In the giving comes receiving.

AS HELP IS RECEIVED, REMEMBER TO THANK GOD, THE GIVER OF ALL GOOD AND PERFECT GIFTS.

The hairs began to stand up on the minister's neck and he leaned forward, listening intently. "I told God that if He didn't let me know that he loved me, I would kill myself," the young man related calmly. He looked directly into the preacher's eyes and said, "You may find this hard to believe, Pastor, but I heard God speak. He answered me, though at first it sounded kind of puny and weak. But then I heard Him loud and clear. He said, 'I love you!' And that's why I'm here today."

We are all connected to one another. We never know when God will use us to help another person. Like the Glad Helpers, we must stay awake—alert—and remain focused, dedicated, disciplined—listening for that still small voice, ever seeking His guidance.

That's what this A.R.E. member did: "I just wanted to let you know that the young lady for whom I left a prayer request is showing miraculous improvement. Yesterday's update indicated that she is off the ventilator, has regained consciousness and is becoming oriented. Thank you so much. The power of the prayer community is amazing!"

We thank YOU.
